PREFACE

In the Fall of 1933, just twenty-two years after this work was undertaken, Cora Cullar Boyd, sister of the compiler, spent several months in Missouri, Ohio, Pennsylvania and Washington, D. C., for the particular purpose of making a personal survey for Boyd Family records among relatives, and in Court Houses, Cemeteries, Libraries, and Historical Societies. A great many of the records which appear in this volume are the result of her splendid work.

Quite by chance, when in the Library of Congress in Washington, D. C., Cora became acquainted with a genealogist, Katherine Cox Gottschalk, of Pittsburgh, Pa., from whom she asked help in locating some Pennsylvania record books. After working with her for a few hours she was so impressed with her knowledge and experience that she suggested retaining Mrs. Gottschalk to complete the job of finding the Boyd immigrant. This arrangement was finally made.

At this time only six generations had been definitely established, and an intensive search revealed the fact that this particular line had never been traced nor its records published.

For many years the compiler had been following the wrong ancestor in his search for family records, he being under the impression that this ancestor was a Francis Boyd. He compiled a complete lineage of this Francis Boyd, but Mrs. Gottschalk produced conclusive evidence showing that he had no connection whatever with the family of the compiler.

She picked up threads of information here and there, finding associates, neighbors and intermarriages; searching the census, tax and land records, locating farms and eliminating all those who did not fit into the picture. When all was put together, she had added two additional early generations to the six already established, which led us to the immigrant, William[1] Boyd.

We are all greatly indebted to Cora Boyd, to Mrs. Gottschalk, and to the many family members who have assisted so materially by furnishing records of their respective families.

We have attempted to use in these records only facts which have been proved, where proof has been obtainable, and when information has been at variance, preference has been given to those in better position to know the facts. In order to minimize errors all records were verified and brought up to date, where possible, just before going to press.

ORIGIN AND HISTORY OF THE NAME "BOYD" AND COAT OF ARMS

The family name of Boyd is one of the ancient names in Scotland, and has been traced back to one named "Eochcudh," who was called Buidhe, meaning "the fair." The appellation of Buidhe was annexed to his name and he was known as "Eochcudh Buidhe," and from him descended the men known later as Boyd. From this early character all of the families named Boyd seem to trace their line of descent.

"The Gaelic word 'Boidh,' which means fair or yellow-haired, was the origin of the names of numerous branches of the Boyd Family.

"Rev. J. S. Boyd of Greenleaf, Minn., says his name originally was spelled 'Buidh,' which means 'yellow-haired,' and a little stream in Ireland was so named after their family. But they undoubtedly first came from Scotland." (Ref. Origin and Hist. of name "Boyd." American Publishers' Association publication, Chicago, Ill., 1905.)

COAT OF ARMS—ORIGINAL

"The arms of this family were described as . . . Az., a fess chequy arg. and gu., in cheif a trefoil, or; Crest, a dexter hand couped at the wrist erect, pointing upwards with the thumb and first two fingers ppr. hand charged with a trefoil, or; motto 'CONFIDO.' Seat of this family was Ballymacool, Letterkenny, Donegal, Ireland."

COAT OF ARMS—ENGLAND

Arms: Az., fesse indented chequy arg. and gu. between two lozenges of the second.
Crest: Three ostrich feathers, sa.
Motto: Confido, which means "I trust."

COAT OF ARMS—SCOTLAND

Arms: Az. a fess chequy ag. and gu.
Crest: A dexter hand erect, issuing out of a wreath, pointing with the thumb and two fingers ppr.
Motto: Confido, which means "I trust."

COAT OF ARMS—IRELAND

Crest: A dexter hand, couped at wrist, erect, third and fourth fingers turned down, ppr.
Motto: Confido, which means "I trust."

Arms and Crests used in America are the same as the Boyds of Scotland and Ireland, except when quartered or slightly changed.

DESCENT OF THE OLD AND ANCIENT FAMILY OF BOYDS IN SCOTLAND

The following account has been copied and condensed from the "History of the Boyd Family and its Descendants" by William P. Boyd, 1912. with the permission of his daughter-in-law, Mrs. Emily L. Boyd of Genesco. New York. which information has not been verified by the compiler.

THOME, a descendant of King Kennith III.

FLEANCE, his son and successor.

ALAN, his son and successor.
Died in 1153.
He was created First Lord High Stewart.
MARRIED Margaret, daughter of Tergus (or Fergus), Earl of Galloway.

FIVE CHILDREN:

(1) No records.

(2) Walter
From whom the royal family of Stewarts descended.

(3) SIMON, his successor.
From whom the noble family of Boyds descended.

(4) No records.

(5) Adam
He was mentioned in a charter given by David I, in the year 1139.

SIMON, his son.
He was created Second Lord High Stewart of Scotland.
His name is found in the foundation charter of the Monastery of Paisley dated 1161. and he is designated "Simon frater." "Walter filis," "Alan Lapiferi" and "Regis Sectiac." This Monastery is supposed to have been the first original house of the Boyds of Scotland. 1157. and supposed to have been in the possession of Walter Fitzalan, ancestor of the royal Stewarts.
He had a number of children, ROBERT being the eldest.

ROBERT BOYD (1st), his eldest son (Robert, the Fair).
Died prior to 1240.
Being of fair complexion he was named "Boyt" or "Boyd" taken from the Gaelic or Celtic word "Boidt" or "Boidel" and from this fact the first surname "Boyd" arose, and from him the families of the "Boyds" in the Old World descended.
He is designated nephew of Alan. First Lord High Stewart, and in a contract between Bryce de Eglinton and the village of Irvin in 1205, he is designated "Dominus Robertus Boyd" and at that time and since then, the Boyds have carried the armorial bearings of the Stewarts and prove their descent from that illustrious house.

NOTE: ROBERT is designated here as the first in this Boyd line and his son, ROBERT as the second, etc.

SIR ROBERT BOYD (2nd), son of Robert (1st).
Died about 1270.
The first history we have of him is in a charter given Sir John Erskin in 1262. He was designated in the same as "Robertus de Boyd Miles" and he was also called Robert II of Scotland.

SIR ROBERT BOYD (3rd), son of Sir Robert (2nd).
Died about 1300.

SIR ROBERT BOYD (4th), son of Sir Robert (3rd).
Died about 1329.
He was a supporter of Robert Bruce and continued so until the independence of Scotland was established, June 23, 1314, by the decisive Battle of Bannockburn, and for his loyal services he was rewarded by Bruce with gifts of land of Kilmarnock, Bondington and Hertschaw. The lands of Kilbyrd and Ardnel, or Portincross, situated in the parish of west Kilbride, were conferred upon him about 1308, and from his younger son, Thomas, the Boyds of Portincross descend. These lands remained in that family until 1737.

THREE SONS:

(1) THOMAS BOYD, his successor.

(2) Allen Boyd
Died 1339.

(3) James Boyd
He was mentioned in charter of 1342.

SIR THOMAS BOYD (5th), son of Sir Robert (4th).

THREE SONS:

(1) THOMAS BOYD, his successor.

(2) William Boyd
He is an ancestor of the Boyds of Badenheath.

(3) Robert de Boyd
He MARRIED a lady named Grizel and was the ancestor of the Boyds of Portincross in Ayrshire. (1375-76.)

SIR THOMAS BOYD (6th), son of Sir Thomas (5th).
He was known and designated "Dominus de Kilmarnock."
(The first Lord Boyd.)
MARRIED a daughter of Sir John Gifford, Lord of Yester by whom he acquired a great fortune.
His son, THOMAS, his successor.

SIR THOMAS BOYD (7th), son of Sir Thomas (6th).
Died July, 1432.
He was the second Lord of Kilmarnock.
He was active in the time of King James I of Scotland.
MARRIED Johanna Montgomery of Androsson.

TWO SONS:

(1) THOMAS BOYD, his successor.

(2) William Boyd
He was Abbot of Kilwinning.

SIR THOMAS BOYD (8th), son of Sir Thomas (7th).
He was killed in battle July 9, 1439, by Alexander Stewart.

FOUR CHILDREN:

(1) ROBERT BOYD, his successor.

(2) Alexander Boyd
Lived at Duncan, Scotland, and was executed in 1469.

(3) Janet Boyd
MARRIED John Alexander Maxwell of Calderwood.

(4) Margaret Boyd
MARRIED Lord Alexander Montgomery.

SIR ROBERT BOYD (9th), son of Sir Thomas (8th).

Died 1470.

He was made Lord of Parliament in 1459 by King James II of Scotland. Later he was Lord Justiciary of Scotland. and also in 1464 and 1465 he was ambassador to England.

MARRIED a daughter of Sir Robert Maxwell of Calderwood.

SIR ROBERT BOYD (9th) was accused. along with his brother, Alexander. of having carried the young King James III (then eight years of age) from Linlithgow to Edinburgh. "to enter upon the regal government. while he was yet in his minority." Parliament and King James II himself declared the Boyds were innocent of all crimes and such a decree was registered among Acts of Parliament. However, the many favors bestowed upon ROBERT by James II caused jealousies among the nobles who planned to overthrow him. This was finally accomplished. and ROBERT and Alexander, his brother. were sentenced to be executed and lands confiscated. Alexander was executed on Castle Hill in Edinburgh in 1469. ROBERT. who had fled to England when he learned of the intention to ruin him, was not executed but died in Alnwick, England, in 1470, of a broken heart over the fate of his family.

FOUR CHILDREN:

(1) THOMAS BOYD, his successor.

(2) Alexander Boyd
He carried on the lineal descent of the family after the death of his nephew.

(3) Archibald Boyd
He was an ancestor of the Boyds of Bousham of Scotland.

(4) Elizabeth Boyd
MARRIED Archibald. the fifth Earl of Angus.

SIR THOMAS BOYD (10th), son of Sir Robert (9th).

Died 1471. in Antwerp. Flanders, and a tomb to his memory bearing "honorable inscription" was erected by his friend, Charles. Duke of Burgundy.

MARRIED Margaret (or Mary) Stewart. King James' eldest sister. By this union SIR THOMAS obtained considerable wealth. and was created the Earl of Arran.

Margaret was to have been given by her mother in marriage to Edward, Prince of Wales.

Apparently her marriage to THOMAS (10th) incurred the displeasure of her brother, King James, as he had her placed in confinement in Dean Castle during the life of her husband. Thomas (10th). to whom she was devoted. and the marriage declared null and void.

After the death of THOMAS (10th). his wife was released and she was married (it is thought by compulsion) to Lord Hamilton, to whom the Earldom of Arran was then given.

(See page 15)

TWO CHILDREN:

(1) JAMES BOYD, his successor.

(2) Margaret Boyd
MARRIED first to Lord Forbes. MARRIED second to Earl Cassillis.
There were no children.

JAMES BOYD (11th), son of Sir Thomas (10th).

He was slain in 1484 in some petty feud while yet a young man and his possessions were returned to the Crown.

Several years after death of his father the Lordship of Boyds was restored to him by a charter from King James III in 1483 and comprehended the lands of Kilmarnock, Daloy, Nodesdale, Monsford. Muir. Rawensdale, Ralson, Flate and other lands in the county of Ayr.

He had no children.

ALEXANDER BOYD (12th), son of Sir Robert (9th).

As JAMES (11th) died leaving no descendants, ALEXANDER, his uncle, the brother of his father, being next in line of lineal descendants, the estate of JAMES (11th) was soon afterwards conferred upon him by King James IV, who became his friend.

In 1505 he was constituted Baillie and Chamberlin of Kilmarnock.

MARRIED the daughter of Sir Robert Colville of Ochiltree, Scotland.

THREE SONS:

(1) ROBERT BOYD, his successor.

(2) Thomas Boyd
He was an ancestor of the Boyds of Pitcon.

(3) Adam Boyd
He was an ancestor of the Boyds of Pentville and Flushing.

ROBERT BOYD (13th), son of Alexander (12th).

Died 1550.

He had the estate and honors of Lord Boyd restored to him in 1536 by King James V, and for bravery shown in the Battle of Glasgow Field, which was fought about 1543, he was awarded additional honors and was succeeding heir to James Boyd, son of the Earl of Arran in 1544.

MARRIED to Helen Somerville, daughter of Sir John Somerville of Cornnathon.

TWO CHILDREN:

(1) ROBERT BOYD, his successor.

(2) Margaret Boyd
MARRIED to Neil Montgomery of Landsham.

ROBERT BOYD (14th), son of Robert (13th).

Born 1517. Died Jan. 3, 1589.

An epitaph to his memory, engraved on a stone is still to be seen in the Low Church of Kilmarnock.

He was known as the fourth Lord Boyd, and was an ardent supporter of Mary, Queen of Scots, who was beheaded Feb. 8., 1587, after nearly twenty years imprisonment in England.

His eldest son, THOMAS, his successor.

THOMAS BOYD (15th), son of Robert (14th).

Died 1619.

He was known as the fifth Lord Boyd, and obtained a charter to many lands and baronies between 1595 and 1599.

MARRIED Margaret, a daughter of Sir Matthew Campbell of Londoune, Scotland.

SEVEN CHILDREN:

(1) ROBERT MARTIN BOYD, his heir.

(2) Sir Thomas Boyd of Bedbay.

(3) Adam Boyd
MARRIED Margaret, sister of Robert Galbreath of Kilbraith.

(4) Daughter (name unknown).
MARRIED the Earl of Abercome.

(5) Daughter (name unknown).
MARRIED Blair of Blair.

(6) Daughter (name unknown).
MARRIED Elphington of Blaythswood.

(7) John Boyd

ROBERT MARTIN BOYD (16th), son of Thomas (15th).

Died too young to succeed his father and become the sixth Lord Boyd.

[illegible]ED to Jane, daughter of the Earl of Lothian.

[illegible]OBERT, succeeded Thomas (15th).

ROBERT BOYD (17th), son of Robert Martin (16th).
He was the sixth Lord Boyd and in 1620 and 1626 he obtained a charter to several lands in Ayrshire.
MARRIED first the daughter of the Master of Eglinton.
There were no children.
MARRIED second the daughter of the Earl of Addington who had great sympathy with the persecuted Presbyterians.
FIVE CHILDREN:

(1) JAMES BOYD, his successor
(2) Daughter (name unknown)
MARRIED Morrison of Preston Grange.
(3) Daughter (name unknown)
MARRIED Sinclair of Stevenson.
(4) Daughter (name unknown)
MARRIED Scott of Harden.
(5) Daughter (name unknown)
MARRIED Dundas of Armstrong.

JAMES BOYD (18th), son of Robert (17th).
He was the eighth Lord Boyd.
He was fined £1500 by Cromwell, for supporting Charles.
It was during the life of this Lord Boyd that the part of Dean Castle, on which the Kilmarnock Arms are sculptured, was erected.

(See page 15)

MARRIED to Catherine Craik (Crayk) who died in 1654.
One son, WILLIAM, his successor.

WILLIAM BOYD (19th), son of James (18th).
Died 1692.
King Charles II created him First Earl of Kilmarnock on Aug. 7, 1661.
In 1672, a second charter conferred upon him and the town further rights and privileges.
His eldest son, WILLIAM, his successor.

WILLIAM (20th), son of William (19th).
He was created second Earl of Kilmarnock.
TWO SONS:
WILLIAM, the eldest son and his successor.

WILLIAM BOYD (21st) son of William (20th).
Died 1717.
He was the third Earl of Kilmarnock, becoming heir to his father in 1699.
He was attached to the House of Hanover. When George I was proclaimed, Aug., 1714, he appeared with the Baillies and other gentlemen at the Council House ceremony. This was in the time of Rob Roy, and the reckless clan of the McGregors.
His eldest son, WILLIAM, his successor.

WILLIAM BOYD (22nd) son of William (21st).
Died Aug. 18, 1746.
He was the fourth Earl of Kilmarnock. When he succeeded to his father's estate it was very much reduced.
MARRIED to Lady Annie Livingston, daughter and heiress of the Earl of Linlithgow and Callander.
He was the last of the Boyds who lived at Dean Castle.
In 1745, Prince Charles (known as the Young Pretender, the last of the Stewart dynasty to be recognized) planted his standard in Scotland and succeeded in gaining the attachment and support of many of the nobles and gentlemen of influence. William became one of Prince Charles' adherents. He was appointed colonel of the Hussars by Prince Charles and accompanied the insurgents to England.

The Duke of Cumberland arrived from Scotland to suppress the Rebellion and on Apr. 16, 1746, at Drummossie Moor, near Culloden House, a short distance from Inverness, vanquished the army of Prince Charles.

William, the fourth Earl of Kilmarnock, among others, was taken prisoner to London Tower and brought to trial July 28, 1746, in Westminster Hall.

The Lord High Stewart and one hundred thirty-six peers were present.

William Boyd, who was a tall and slender person of dignity, stood up and pleaded guilty, and recommended himself to the mercy of the King. He was executed Aug. 18, 1746, after all pleas and petitions in his behalf had been rejected.

Interment was made at his own request close by the side of Marquis of Tullibardine in the Church of St. Peters, London. Inscription on his coffin: "Guilielmus. Comes de Kilmarnock, Decollatus, 18 Augusti 1746, Aetat Suae 42."

His wife, Annie, died of grief Sept. 16, 1747, at Kilmarnock.

THREE SONS:

(1) Robert Boyd, the Earl of Errol.

He was called Lord Boyd.

By a trust deed dated 1732, and confirmed by the House of Peers, in 1752, he recovered the land of Kilmarnock, forfeited by his father, and this was sold afterwards to the Earl of Glencairn. Upon the death of his great-aunt, the Countess of Errol in her own right, he succeeded to the title of Errol in 1758. The sale of the title of his forefathers closed the last title of the Boyds of Scotland. This had been handed down from one generation to another for nearly eight hundred years. He then took up his residence at Slains Castle, Aberdeenshire, Scotland, situated upon the sea coast.

(2) Charles Boyd

He took up the spirit of the rebellion with his father, and was also engaged in the same Battle of Drummossie with his father. Soon after the fight he fled to the Island of Arran, the ancient property of the Boyds, where he concealed himself for a year. He then went to France and married a French lady and resided there for about twenty years, when a pardon was granted to all the rebels, and he returned again to his native-country and resided with his brother in Aberdeenshire.

(3) William Boyd

He was in the Royal Navy and was promoted in 1761 to a company of the Fourteenth Infantry. Being close to the time of the Revolutionary War he may have been sent to America with his regiment. Some Boyd families today connect their lineage to him, or to a Boyd of that name, who settled in the middle or eastern States.

The present Earl of Errol, known as Hays, is the direct descendant of the Boyd family in the lineal line. In the Peerage of the United Kingdom, he is called Baron Kilmarnock of Kilmarnock.

HISTORY OF THE CITY OF KILMARNOCK, SCOTLAND, AND DEAN CASTLE, THE HOME OF THE ANCIENT BOYDS

(From History of the Boyd Family and Descendants by William P. Boyd, published in 1912.)

The city of Kilmarnock, the original home of the Boyd family in the Old World, is situated a few miles inland upon the western coast of the Highlands of the romantic country called "Scotland." The place today is one of the largest towns in the County of Ayr and rests upon the banks of two mossy streams called Irvin and Kilmarnock, some fifteen and one-half miles by rail northeast of Ayr and twenty-four miles southwest of Glasgow.

Kilmarnock, for a long time after the death of "Marnock," a noted Irish minister or prophet, from whom its name is derived, must have been a mere hamlet, for we find no trace of it in history until the year 1591, when our noble family of Boyds became possessors of the land and made a burgh or barony of it. The earliest mention of it is by Barbour, in his life of Bruce, as one of the chance places through which the English knight, Sir Philip Mowbray, fled, after being defeated by Douglass, somewhere in the District of Cunningham, about the year 1306.

The town books go no farther back than 1686 and throw no light on the general history of the place. The first entry of baptism was recorded for February 6, 1644.

One of the first notices of any consequence which we have of Kilmarnock, is in a document giving the names of persons who voted on appointment of a Parish, or clerk of a Parish, in the year 1507. In the list, the Boyd name appears fifteen times, Smyth sixteen and Brown twenty times.

Kilmarnock was created a burgh or barony in 1591, under the Boyds, and its charter was confirmed by Charles II, in 1672.

There is the following interesting document found among the archives of Scotland today, which is the charter of King James VI to Thomas Boyd and Son, erecting the town of Kilmarnock into a burgh or barony and reads thus:

> "Charter and Infertnum by James VI. In favor of Thomas Lord Boyd in Life sent and Robert Master of Boyds in Fee, dated 12 January, 1591."
> "In witness whereof, etc., witnesses, etc., at Holyrood House, the twelfth day of the month of January, in the year of our Lord MDXCI and of our reign XXV."
> (Signed) James VI.

(Space does not permit quoting the lengthy document.)

In the village of Kilmarnock the Boyds erected at this time what was called "Gallows Knowe" for punishment of those who failed to do as they were requested, or were enemies to the will of the Boyds. The structure stood until 1861, when it was torn down. Authority was given, as seen in the above charter, to Lord Thomas Boyd to establish this "Gallows Knowe" in his barony. Dr. Johnson, an able writer on Scottish history, says: "The name so called was in consequence of being the place of execution in the days of feudalism. The Boyds had at one time the right of pit and gallows, a privilege conferred on all Barons according to our old laws of having on his grounds a pit for drowning women and gallows for hanging men convicted of theft."

On May 22, 1668, the town of Kilmarnock was wholly destroyed by fire. Another large fire visited the place on Saturday, April 26, 1800.

In Burns' time, Kilmarnock enjoyed the reputation of being the most irregularly built town in the west of Scotland.

The Parish of Kilmarnock contains some interesting memorials and relics of grandeur of bygone days. One of these is the very heavy grown ruins of Dean [illegible] ne home of the Boyd family for nearly eight hundred years, which was [illegible] l by fire in 1735.

[illegible] n Castle stands at a distance of nearly a mile northeast of the present [illegible] ity of Kilmarnock. This city now rests upon lands once owned by the n[illegible]

Family of Boyd, in the County of Ayrshire on the western coast of Scotland. Its situation, in country redolent of history, though not, perhaps, the most romantic, can scarcely fail to delight the admirer of the magnificent in nature.

According to Dr. Jamieson, a noted historian, the name "dean" signifies a small valley or hollow where the ground slopes on both sides. Not far from the castle the scene is enlivened by two little mossy streams locally called the "Borland and Crawfordland."

Francis Grose, one of Scotland's able writers, visited the castle about the year 1789, and made a drawing of its ruins for his "Antiquities of Scotland," from which we quote:

> "This is one of the ancient seats of the Boyds, Earls of Kilmarnock, for some time the favourites of King James III. It was forfeited in the year 1745, afterwards sold to the Earl of Glencairn, and in 1789, when this drawing was made, belonged to Miss Scott.
> "It lies a small distance from the main road leading from Kilmarnock to Stewarton, and consists of a large vaulted square tower, which seems to have been built about the beginning of the fifteenth century: this is surrounded by a court and other buildings, apparently more modern. Upon the tower under a defaced coat of arms, there is this inscription:
> James Lord of > Kilmarnock
> Dame Katherine Creyk
> Lady Boyd
> (See page 12)
> "The Lord James, here commemorated, according to Douglas, died in 1654. He was a firm adherent to the royal cause, for which he was by Oliver Cromwell exempted from pardon, and fined fifteen hundred pounds sterling. He was the eighth Lord Boyd.
> "In this castle, it is said, Lady Margaret (Douglas calls her Mary) sister to King James III, was confined during the life of her husband, Thomas Boyd, Earl of Arran, from whom she was divorced, notwithstanding she had borne him two children. The pretext for this divorce was some legal impediment at the time of marriage."

The walls of the high tower are about ten feet thick. As a place of strength, as well as a manor-house, the "Dean" appears to have been superior to many of the strongholds of our Scottish barons of the older times.

After the burning of Dean Castle, William Boyd, Earl of Kilmarnock, lived at the Marnock house, which is still in existence and is used as an industrial building.

THE ROYAL HOUSE OF STEWART AND THE STEWART-BOYD CLAN

The clan system took its origin largely from the mountainous nature of the country. each family or tribe living in its own glen. the head being the chief. Combinations of clans who were related were formed. the chief of the strongest clan becoming head of the whole clan. The branches were called "Septs." Hence we find that through relationship the Boyds were members of the Royal Clan of the Stewarts. The tartan of the Boyds is the same as that of Royal Stewarts.

THE MIGRATIONS OF THE BOYDS FROM SCOTLAND TO IRELAND WITH REFERENCES

The Boyds once held the destinies of Scotland in their hands, according to a writer on the subject of Scotland in the Encyclopaedia Britannica.

The main family by the name of Boyd in Scotland has been seated in Ayrshire and the most prominent branch was the Lords or Earls of Kilmarnock.

From Scotland they migrated to the north of Ireland, and many of the Boyd progenitors became known as Scotch-Irish.

The reason for this migration was because King James I of England, who ascended the throne in 1603, offered the Scotch special inducements to settle in Ulster, Ireland, where he owned two million acres comprising six counties. A company was formed to colonize Ireland, and the territory was divided into small farms and sold to the Scotch, among whom the Montgomerys, Hamiltons and Boyds were the leaders. The men who undertook to seat large grants of these lands, were called undertakers: among these undertakers were listed Sir Thomas Boyd, Knt., James Hamilton, Earl of Aberdeen, George Hamilton, gent., and Sir George Hamilton, Knt. Their lands fell in the precinct of Strabane, County of Tyrone. (Ref. The Scotch-Irish by Charles A. Hanna, 1902, Vol. 2, pages 511-12.)

April 16, 1605, one of the greatest days in history, marked the day of the Great Charter and the Plantation of Ulster. It was a bright and sunny day in middle May, 1605, which marked the landing of the first settlers from Scotland to restore the Provinces of Ulster, and to establish the type of men we now call the "Scotch-Irish."

"These families carried in their veins the strains of the blood of the Briton, the Norman, the Saxon, the Dane and added to these the Scotchmen who had come from Scotia Major or Ireland. They are enrolled on countless battlefields in both Europe and America." (The Cumberland Valley Hist., by Dr. Geo. P. Donehoo, 1900, Vol. 1, page 31.)

In forming new ties in their homes in northern Ireland, they did not mix or mingle with the native Irish families, but kept to themselves in their social life, in their intermarriages, and in their faith. Thus they preserved their true Scotch blood, though resident for generations in Ireland, and proudly clung to the appellation which designated them as of Scotch blood and traditions. The Irish Catholics rebelled against these Protestant Scotch and on Oct. 23, 1641, occurred the Irish Massacre.

In 1704 their trials became very great in Ireland. They were burdened with lawsuits, forbidden to educate their children in their own faith, and suffered so many other persecutions that a steady stream of migration set in, to the extent that the counties of Down, Antrim, Armagh and Derry were literally emptied of these courageous folk, who were the Protestant inhabitants of this part of Ireland. From these counties came a constant stream of settlers to the Colonies in America. Most of them entered by way of Pennsylvania, and many of them made their homes there. Some went down the valley of Virginia and on into North Carolina, and some entered at Charleston, S. C., and other ports. It is a common thing to find these immigrants joining friends and relatives who had preceded them in coming to the new world.

NOTE: The last three named publications were used extensively in compiling the history given here.

In all of the references which we have been able to follow, the families trace back to the common origin as given of Eochcudh Buidhe and the seat of the family in Scotland as mainly in Ayrshire: the most prominent branch being the Earls of Kilmarnock. In all of the history of the Boyds in Ayrshire and in Renfrew. the family of Hamilton is very closely associated and these associations follow in the migration to Ireland and later in the migrations to Pennsylvania.

It is also to be noticed that in the Boyd Family in Scotland and the branches removed to Ireland, the same names used in the Pennsylvania families are repeated over and over. the preference being given to the name Robert. The names William. John, Thomas, Archibald and even Andrew and Adam are also repeatedly used.

BOYDS IN AMERICA

Among the constant stream of migration, which included the Boyds, to the border settlements of Pennsylvania and Virginia, were soldiers, border raiders, dreamers, thinkers and theologians. In their veins ran the blood of Vikings, Gaels, Britons, Normans and Danes, giving them the courage and initiative to cope with their many needs, and strengthening their desire to retain culture and learning, and above all to keep alive their Protestant faith.

(There are two distinct groups of Boyds who migrated to America, the Quaker Boyds and the Presbyterian Boyds. As this book is concerned only with the latter, the records of the Quaker families have been omitted.)

A large majority of these early settlers were Presbyterians and they were very strong in their religious faith.

In no family was this more apparent than in those by the name of Boyd, who settled in Pennsylvania. Among men of this name there were, in early Pennsylvania history, many strong adherents to the old Covenanters' faith of the Presbyterians. In these families, as well as in those who came over much later, we find many ministers of the Presbyterian Church named Boyd.

The descendants of some of the sons of William[1] Boyd, of the Manor of Maske, may have been among these, as not all of the Boyds of the succeeding generations have been placed in our research, and it is very probable that some of these unplaced Boyds are descendants of William[1] Boyd, the immigrant.

As soldiers in the new country, the name of Boyd was always prominent in response to all demands made by war or for border protection. As citizens they have assumed all their duties with integrity.

The Boyds with which this book deals came from the north of Ireland with one hundred and forty other families, under the leadership of Hance Hamilton, landing at New Castle, Delaware, August 24, 1729. The other families included the McPherson, McKeen, McElwee, McClean, Morrison, Gilkerson, Simonton, Black, Moses McCarley, Henry McDonough, Duncan Evans, John Craig and many other friends and kinsmen. (Ref. Presbyterian Records, Historical Library, Belfast, Ireland, "List of Protestant Householders, 1700-29.")

Upon their arrival in America, whether at New Castle, Delaware, or Philadelphia, these newcomers usually joined friends or relatives, taking some time to investigate before investing in farms and settling in groups of families which were closely allied.

The migrations became heavier after 1730, reaching the greatest peak about 1755.

"In 1727 a recommendation was sent to have settlers come over to help hold the land which Maryland claimed in Pennsylvania. A colony of one hundred and forty families from Ulster, led by Capt. Hance Hamilton, landed in New Castle, Delaware, August 24, 1729, and located first on Sir Wm. Keith's tract called Newberry, in Newberry Township, York County, Pa. This tract extended in 1732 from Conewago Creek, York and Adams Counties, Pa., to Yellow Breeches Creek, York County, Pa. The land was close to Wrightsville, York County, Pa., on the Susquehanna River.

"Hance Hamilton, Jr., was born 1721 and came with his father to Pennsylvania in 1729. The date of landing was written on the flyleaf of the Bible of John Hamilton, nephew of Colonel Hance Hamilton.

"These settlers moved before 1736 to Marsh Creek, Adams County, Pa." (Ref. [illegible]r, Hanna, Scott, Hamilton Genealogy, 1729-1929, p. 174, Chapter 8, by Eliza-[illegible] Gilmor, Wooster, Ohio, published in 1932.)

BOYDS IN PENNSYLVANIA

HISTORY OF THE MARSH CREEK SETTLEMENT AND MANOR OF MASKE

From the general records of the migrations to Pennsylvania, we find our family of Boyds, so long associated with the Hamiltons in Scotland, following under Hamilton leadership into the northern counties of Ireland, and still later into Pennsylvania.

Many of the families who came with Hance Hamilton in 1729 settled on Marsh Creek, Lancaster County, Pa. (which was later York, and now Adams County, Pa., near Gettysburg), in what was called "The Marsh Creek Settlement of Scotch-Irish Covenanters" in 1734-38.

Extracts from the History of Cumberland and Adams County, Pa., by Warren, Part 2, Adams County, Pa.

The Scotch-Irish came to Adams County about 1734, under the leadership of Hance Hamilton, and settled along the branches of Marsh Creek (p. 12). The Scotch-Irish of the settlement of Marsh Creek came from the hills of Counties Tyrone, Derry, Cavan and Sligo in Ireland to the foothills of Old South Mountains in Pennsylvania (p. 238).

The Manor of Maske was established by an act of the Proprietors of the Colony of Pennsylvania in 1710, but could not be laid out then owing to the resistance to this by the settlers, who had established their homes there. To the south of the Manor of Maske (Marsh Creek Settlements), lay the territory where the claims between the William Penn and Lord Baltimore grants overlapped. This land was in dispute and was settled under Maryland claims and grants, known as "Digge's Choice" and the "Carroll Tract." Settlers in this strip had so much trouble with land titles, fees and taxes, that they moved over into the Manor of Maske (p. 11). The Carroll Tract was just south of the Marsh Creek Settlement, and was a Manor laid out by Charles Carroll.

The order for the survey of the Manor of Maske called for 30,000 acres and was dated June 18, 1711, some time after the conception of this land project by the proprietors in 1710.

Warrants were issued for the Manor of Maske, 1765-75 (Ref. Dept. of Internal Affairs, Harrisburg, Pa.).

The lines were not actually run until Jan., 1766, and a return made Apr. 17, 1768. The southern line was about a half mile north of the present Mason and Dixon line, or boundary between Pennsylvania and Maryland, and it included all of Cumberland Township, and the southeast corner of Franklin Township (Ref. Days Annals).

The persons on this land along the branches of Marsh Creek were: Hugh McClean, Henry McDonough, Hugh Logan, Hance Hamilton, William Boyd, Thomas Boyd and others.

NOTE: Formation of Counties and their Courts in Pennsylvania: Chester, an original county formed in 1682. From Chester was formed Lancaster in 1729. From Lancaster was formed York in 1749, and Cumberland in 1750. From York was formed Adams in 1800.

When William Penn laid out the Manor of Maske in 1740-41, he found these families on improved lands along the rugged frontier outpost of civilization, and they would not be disturbed. Their resistance to the surveyors, their difficulties with land titles in conflicting claims between proprietors of the Pennsylvania Colony and the grants of Lord Baltimore, their thrifty habits and newly acquired wealth, all bespeak the trusty, persevering character of these men and their wives.

It was 1765 before the Penns were actually able to survey these lands fast by the strong hearted Scotch-Irish, who were then allowed to take out gra the lands upon which they had already settled.

The history of this settlement follows the traditions of the blood inherited by these Scotch-Irish from the long line of descent depicted in the narratives of their ancestors.

Three men named "Boyd" came together from Ireland in 1729, and, with their families, settled on Marsh Creek, in what is now Adams County, Pennsylvania. These men were Thomas[1] Boyd, William[1] Boyd and John[2] Boyd. It is presumed that Thomas and William were brothers, and that John was a son of William.

The estate of Thomas Boyd was not fully settled until 1778.

MARRIED to Rebecca.
(She MARRIED second after 1760 to Thomas Stevenson.)

She died before Feb. 10, 1776.

His occupation: Tanner and farmer. The tan yards he began were continued by his son William[2], who took over the small farm and the tan yard, and gave bond in court to protect the interests of the four other children, who were not of age when their father died.

It is presumed that Thomas[1] Boyd was the brother of William[1] Boyd, who with his wife Margaret came at the same time to the Marsh Creek settlements.

Thomas[1] Boyd, together with his friends and relatives, removed from their homes in Ireland, and after reaching Pennsylvania, under the leadership of Hance Hamilton moved to the unimproved and wild lands along Marsh Creek.

Died before 1808.

He was of age in 1776.

MARRIED to Mary and removed to Baltimore, Md. They were living there Mar. 27, 1794.

Land Transfer (Ref. Book 2-I p. 557, Mar. 27, 1794).
Andrew Boyd of Baltimore, Md., sells his share in this land to William Moore of Cumberland Township, York County, Pa.

In 1808 Andrew Boyd is deceased and his wife, Mary, clears the title and shows the full title to this land.

Deed Book 2-I p. 557, Mar. 27, 1794.
Andrew Boyd of Baltimore, Md., to Wm. Moore of Cumberland Township, York County, Pa., land conveyed by Andrew Boyd and by William Boyd and Elizabeth Boyd, his wife.

OLD SEWICKLEY PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

(Located near West Newton, Westmoreland County, Pa.)
(164th year of service, April, 1772-1935)

Because of its historical interest, and because the lives of the early Presbyterian settlers in Westmoreland County, Pa., were so closely interwoven with that of the Old Sewickley Church, it seems very fitting and appropriate to give some record of it here.

The following accounts were taken from an address delivered by Rev. J. H. Stevenson, Sept. 15, 1876.

Rev. James Power was born in Chester County, Pa., educated at Princeton, and licensed by the Presbytery of New Castle in 1772. On his first missionary tour in 1774 he visited this district in Westmoreland County, Pa., near the present town of West Newton. He came by way of Mt. Pleasant or Tyrone.

Here he found, living on the south side of the Sewickley Creek, the Markles, McClintocks, Fultons, Lambs, Carnahans, Robertsons and Hannas. (The Boyds came a few years later, about 1790.)

On the north side he found the Caldwells, Guffeys, Hamiltons, Milligans, Henrys, Briggs and (perhaps) the Ritcheys, Carothers and Mitchells. All of these were of strong Presbyterian attachments.

Mr. Andrew Finley, Esq., was present and heard the first sermon preached by Dr. Power within the bounds of Sewickley, and he often spoke of it to his daughter, Mrs. Mary (Finley) Bell.

This was the first neighborhood west of the Allegheny Mountains to hear the Gospel preached.

The meeting was in the woods, where Col. Israel Painter now resides. The home then belonged to Mr. Carnahan. The men stood with rifles in hand guarding against a surprise attack by the Indians.

Dr. McMillan's first visit was in 1775. In November, 1776, Dr. Power removed his family from Chester County, Pa., to the western part of the province. They made this journey on horseback.

For a few years he resided at Dunlap's Creek, where he served as a sort of "Missionary Pastor." He organized a number of churches, among which were Dunlap's Creek, Laurel Hill, Unity, Tyrone, Mt. Pleasant, Sewickley and Cross Creek. In the spring of 1779 he removed to Mt. Pleasant and became the regular pastor of that church and of Sewickley.

Dr. Power's pastorate at Mt. Pleasant lasted thirty-eight years, and Dr. McMillan's at Chartiers lasted fifty-five years (1778-1833).

The first house of worship stood about one and one-half miles north of the present Sewickley Church, on the road leading from Markle's Mill towards Pittsburgh, about half way between the Big and Little Sewickleys (Ref. Old Redstone, p. 238).

There are no records stating when it was erected, nor how long it was used, but the records dated "Rehoboth 1786 April 18" show that the question of building another house was brought to the attention of the Presbytery. This first house was very primitive and constructed entirely with the ax. No saw, plane, or even hammer was used, for nails or iron in any shape were not employed. The side walls were logs and the roof was clapboards, kept in place by logs laid upon them. Doors were of the same kind, fastened together with wooden pins and hung on wooden hinges. The windows were small openings cut in the logs and glazed with paper or white linen, oiled with lard or bear's grease. The seats were split logs, raised on blocks or wooden pegs upon the earthen floor.

The congregation became divided concerning a new location for the church, and as an agreement was impossible, the Sewickley congregation was dissolved by the Presbytery and Dr. Power dismissed as their pastor. Aug. 21, 1787.

The southern part of the congregation, and those on the north side of the creek who were of the same mind, proceeded to build the second Meeting House on the site of the present church, about 1788.

Ground for this church and graveyard was secured from the Huey or Huoy farm.

Glass was put in the windows, and an elaborately carved walnut pulpit with canopy was installed. The seats were private property and built of split logs. Some had a bar as a support for the back, but Mr. Oliver Bovard scouted at such effeminacy and sat erect in the strength of conscious uprightness.

Twenty years later the congregation voted to install stoves for heat. This was opposed by the virtuous minority as a device of the devil, and because these stoves smoked intolerably they saw "manifest token" of Divine displeasure.

General Markle, Mr. Richey, David Hunter Richey and Mr. John Carothers had pews in this church.

In 1832 the United Presbyterians, under Dr. Mungo Dick, pioneer U.P. Missionary, located or took over the Old Sewickley Church, on the original site between the Sewickley Creeks, and erected a new brick building. In 1856 this was completely remodeled. The walls were papered, the floor carpeted and the yard fenced. After 1876 the building was again remodeled. This brick church has always been called the Dick United Presbyterian Church, and the present pastor is Rev. F. G. Wright, Irwin, Pa., R.F.D. #1. Rev. Willis was formerly pastor.

It is in the graveyard of this Dick Church that the bodies of the four old Revolutionary soldiers lie buried. William[3], Benjamin[3], John[3] and Robert[3] Boyd, and many others whose records appear in this book.

In this same year, 1832, the Sewickley Presbyterian church erected a stone building about a mile and a half away from the original site, on the south side of Sewickley Creek. This congregation dates from April 1772, when it is recorded in Minutes of Donegal Presbytery, "Applications in behalf of Ligonier, Sewickley, Jacobs Creek . . . Round Hill, etc. . . . " (Ref. Journal of Dept. of History of the Presbyterian Church, Vol. 16, #4, p. 151, Dec. 1934.) The present pastor of this church is Rev. Charles W. Maus, D.D., Irwin, Pa., R.F.D. #1.

It is thought that the Union Meeting House must have been used to designate the Church between the Sewickleys from the time of the dissolution of the pastoral relation between Mr. Power and the Sewickley congregation in 1787, until the coming of Mungo Dick in 1832, and the gathering of the families between the Sewickleys into a United Presbyterian congregation.

THE BOYD LINEAGE OF MERCELIA LOUISE BOYD

FIRST GENERATION

1. WILLIAM[1] BOYD, The Immigrant.

Born about 1700-1710 in the northern part of Ireland.

Died Sept., 1767, in Cumberland Township, York County (now Adams County), Pa.

Buried in Old Black Cemetery, also known as the Presbyterian Church Yard of Upper Marsh Creek Church. (Ref. History of Cumberland and Adams County.) It was located about three miles northwest of Gettysburg, Adams County, Pa. His stone, an old flat grave marker, is still there (1935).

His will was dated Sept. 8, 1767, probated Oct. 1, 1767, York County (now Adams County), Pa. (Ref. Will Book B, page 133, York County Court House.)

Bequests: To wife, Margaret.
To sons, John, James, James Carley, Moses, William, Samuel and Robert Boyd.
To daughters, Isabella and Margaret.
To nephew, James Gilkerson.

Executors: Wife, Margaret, and son, Moses.

Witnesses: Joseph Morrison and Robert Long.

Moses and William each received half of his plantation, and they were to give bonds for it until Samuel and Robert were of age. Bonds were to be lodged with Mr. Samuel Edie. If Samuel and Robert were stubborn or disobedient they were to be bound out.

MARRIED in 1726 to Margaret in Ireland.

She was born 1706-10 in Ireland.

She died after 1767. Buried in Old Black Cemetery, beside her husband.

His occupation: Blacksmith and farmer. A blacksmith in the early days was one of the most honored men of the commonwealth, for he did the manufacturing of all tools, implements and other articles of iron produced in the forges, as well as the shoeing of horses. In the operation of forges and tanneries (also one of the most important industries), young men were constantly apprenticed to the owners and operators to learn a trade for themselves. Thus it would seem that William[1] Boyd carried on a very profitable business, located as he was, on the border of settlements and on the trails, which developed, after his coming there, into main thoroughfares westward and northward.

As this family accumulated wealth by their thrift in their new homeland, they seemed to have developed a trait for land investment. This is still more apparent in the next generation, and constantly led them into new territory, where they seemed to have speculated in land investments, had cash to loan on real estate, and while they usually owned and lived on good farms, they had other enterprises as outlets for their capital.

William[1] Boyd was a Presbyterian and he is thought to have been a brother to Thomas[1] Boyd, the tanner, who settled on lands near William[1].

They had a family of sons and daughters when they came to York County (now Adams County), Pa., about 1734-1736, and at least two sons were born after they settled there.

When William[1] Boyd and family landed, with his countrymen, at New Castle, Delaware, Aug. 24, 1729, he evidently brought along sufficient funds with which to make a start in the new world, for we find him taking out a grant of 200 acres of land in the Manor of Maske, Lancaster County, Pa. (now known as Cumberland Township, Adams County, Pa.). Warrants were issued in 1740, though the family had cleared, occupied and farmed this land long before this date. Half of this farm eventually went to his son. William[2] Boyd, and was held by heirs of Archibald[3] and James[4] Boyd. The other half went to Moses[2] Boyd. and was sold by his heirs. (Ref. William Boyd. 200 acres in Manor of Maske. survey filed in the warrant. May 15. 1765.—Pa. Arch.. 3rd Series, Vol. 3. p. 259-60. Proprietary Rights.)

An indenture between Hance Hamilton. Esq.. High Sheriff of York County. Pa.. to William Boyd. Nicholas Wyerman. Derick Mummert. Valentine Eyler. Jacob Parr. Michael Keiselman. Philip Emigh. freeholders of the said county who declare the election of two assemblymen. Signed by William Boyd (seal). (Ref. Pa. Arch.. 6th Series. Vol. 11. p. 415. Oct. 1. 1756.)

Neighbors of William[1] Boyd: Joseph Morrison of York County. tanner. to Robert McPherson. York County. mortgage on land in Cumberland Township. lands adjoining lands of David Porter. Margaret Buchanan. John Beard, William Boyd and Samuel Moore. (Ref. Book B. p. 138. 1761. York County. Pa.. Court House.)

William[1] Boyd's wife was named Margaret. She may have been a McClean. a McCarley. or a McPherson. as all of these families seem so closely allied to William Boyd's family. Ann. who was the wife first of a Mr. Gilkeson, and secondly of Archibald Simonton. was a sister of Margaret. the wife of William Boyd. In her will this Ann left her property under the management of William Boyd. William Boyd mentions his nephew. James Gilkeson. in his will.

BROTHERS AND SISTERS of Margaret:

Ann 1st husband. Mr. Gilkeson.
(Son James. b. about 1736. mentioned in will of William[1] Boyd.)
2nd husband, Archibald Simonton.
(She and her children accompanied the Boyd Family to America. She was a widow when she died. leaving children by both husbands.)

Jane (Jean) . husband, Mr. Scrogan (Suragan). or Morrison.
(She remained in Ireland.)

NOTE:

Bequests: To son. James Gilkeson. one-half of my estate.
To daughter. Mary Gilkeson } other half of my estate.
To daughter. Margaret Simonton }
To sister. Margaret Boyd. clothes.
To Jean Suragan. clothes and cradle.

Executors: William Boyd and William McGaughrey.
Witness: John Black.

Executors: Wife. Catherine. son Archibald and trusty friend, James Maxwell. son of John.

Witnesses: Wm. Russell. Sr., Wm. Russell. Jr.. and Robert Morrison.

(He left several grandchildren at his death in 1785.)

MARRIED 1744-48 to Catherine[3] McGrew in York County (now Adams), Pa.

(See McGrew Family, page 280)

She was born 1724 in County Tyrone, Ireland.

She died Oct. 26 (or Apr. 26), 1828, aged 104 years.

Buried in Westmoreland County. Pa.

She was about two years old when her parents brought her to America from Ireland.

His occupation: Farmer and investor in real estate.

He was about eight or ten years of age when his father brought the family to the Marsh Creek settlement about 1734 to 1736. and he was raised on his father's 200-acre farm near the present town of Gettysburg. Pa. This land was in Cumberland Township. Lancaster County. Pa., until 1749, and then in the newly created York County until 1800. when it fell into Adams County. which is the present name and location.

William[2] Boyd and his family resided on this farm. which he and his brother Moses[2] inherited from their father. William[1] Boyd.

William[2] Boyd lived in Cumberland Township. York County. Pa.. during the Revolutionary War, as shown by the tax list of that County.

Tax List. Cumberland Twp., York County. Pa.

(Pa. Arch., 3rd Series. Vol. 21.)

William[2] Boyd, 1779-80. 200 acres: 1780. 150 acres: 1783. 200 acres.

He had seven inhabitants in his household in 1783. as found in the tax list of that year. York County. Pa.

William[2] Boyd and others are summoned about an election held on Oct. 13, 1778, summoned Jan. 21. 1779. (Ref. Pa. Arch.. 6th Series, Vol. 11. p. 431.)

William[2] Boyd, like his father and brothers. was of very strong Presbyterian stock. and they attended the old Marsh Creek Presbyterian Church.

His sons were all long lived. strong. hardy men and were employed on his farms and in his business enterprises.

The four sons, William, John, Robert and Benjamin, mentioned in his will, are the four old soldiers. whose graves are still in the Old Dick Cemetery. near West Newton, Pa.

The neighbors of the Boyds were the Blacks. Hamiltons. McPherson. Morrisons and others. They often had to appeal to the Assembly in Philadelphia for assistance. as the Indians were always a menace to their homes.

William[2] Boyd. with his brothers. Archibald. Robert and Benjamin. followed in his father's footsteps on the two-hundred-acre farm in the Manor of Maske. He also invested in lead and iron-bearing lands in Sinking Valley. These mines were worked by the early settlers. and furnished lead for the Revolutionary War.

Sinking Valley lay in the northwestern section of Huntington County (Tyrone, Barree and Morris Townships), Pa. This was Bedford County until 1788.

In 1846 it fell into Blair County. Today the lands are near the town of Laurelville. Frankstown Township. Blair County. Pa.

The Proprietors of Pennsylvania held the Sinking Valley lands under a leasing system whereby an agreement for the warrant was given by them. subject to the making of certain improvements.

William[2] Boyd was given such a warrant for 251 acres of these lands and he in turn rented them to John Morton for £7 per year. The rents. by the terms of his will, were to go to his widow, Catherine.

Tax list of 1788 of Tyrone Township, Huntington County. Pa., show 300 acres assessed to John Morton for widow Boyd.

This land was transferred to Thomas Low, or Law, who in 1797 conveyed it to Philip Roller, son of Jacob Roller, of Sinking Valley, and it became the ancestral home of this well-known family. Later it fell to Roller descendants named Wilson. Upon the death of Philip Roller, the lands went to Jesse Moore of Franklin Township. Perry Moore was living on this farm in 1883.

John Penn, Jr., and John Penn, Esq., late Proprietors of Pennsylvania, by their attorney, deeded to Philip Roller of Tyrone Township, Huntington County, Pa., lands in the Manor of Sinking Valley, Lot 51, by Canoe Mountain, on Little Juniata, containing 136 acres, 106 perches.

This was conveyed by special purposes, dated Apr. 29, 1788, recorded in Letter of Attorney Books, ‡2, p. 368. (Ref. Book C, p. 510, Mar. 5, 1794, Huntington County, Pa.)

NOTE: "500 acres . . . Board of Property Rights . . . adjoining Sinking Valley Manor, Apr., 1763, and came before the Board Jul. 24, 1777." (Pa. Arch. 3-3-277.)

William[2] Boyd also had farm lands in the Juniata country, which was Bedford, Somerset or Fulton Counties, and in the Carroll Tract.

He held lands in North Huntingdon Township, Westmoreland County, Pa., adjoining Means Survey, which he gave to his son, John[3], in 1785, who resided there.

PARENTS of Catherine[3] McGrew: John[2] and Elizabeth McGrew of County Tyrone, Ireland.

William[3] Boyd MARRIED in 1778 to Margaret in York County (now Adams County). Pa.

She was born June 26. 1757.

She died Nov. 14, 1814. aged 57 years. on their farm in Westmoreland County. Pa. Buried in Old Sewickley (now Old Dick) Church Cemetery. near West Newton. Pa.. of which they were members.

She signed deeds with her husband in 1812 in Alleghaney County. Pa.. and earlier in Huntington County. Pa.

His occupation: Farmer and farm land operator. buying and selling and taking mortgages on farm lands.

He moved to Huntington County. Pa.. and about 1793-94 to Westmoreland County. Pa.. where he joined his brothers. John. Benjamin and Robert Boyd.

Revolutionary War Service of William[3] Boyd:

William[3] Boyd resided in Cumberland Township. York County, Pa., during the Revolutionary War. His place was about four miles from Gettysburg in what is now Adams County. Pa. Adams County was formed from York County in 1800. The taxes show him there as William Boyd. Jr.

At the beginning of the War recruiting agents were sent out to enlist men. among these were Captain Matthew Scott: Captain Joseph Finley of Marsh Creek. York

County; and Lt. John Gregg of Marsh Creek, York County, who were under Col. Walter Stewart. William[3] Boyd, and many of his neighbors, were under the command of Captain Matthew Scott, whose Company was formed largely of men from Cumberland Township, York County, Pa.

In the year 1778, about August, William[3] Boyd was promoted to Sergeant for a short time. After he finished this tour of enlistment he probably returned home and later joined Captain Paxton's Ranging Company to protect the frontiers, and later, with his brother, Robert[3] Boyd, joined the New Levies to protect the frontiers again.

He served first as a private under Capt. Matthew Scott, before Scott was promoted to his captaincy. In 1778 William[3] Boyd was promoted to the rank of sergeant through vacancies in higher offices. He was recruited from York County, Pa., but transferred to Scott's Company.

He was one of the men in the regular militia companies of his own township in the division of the County battalions (Ref. Pa. Arch. 6th Ser., Vol. 2, p. 469, Cumberland Twp., York County, Pa., Apr., 1778). These men were between the ages of 16 and 60 years, who had not at that time enlisted, but were required to answer the call and were deemed fit to serve if necessary.

After his removal to Huntington County, Pa., about 1790, he was a member of the County Militia.

NOTE: Huntington County was formed from Bedford County, Sept. 27, 1787.

William[3] Boyd seems to have marched first up towards Fort Washington, N. Y.. and then back to New Jersey and Pennsylvania. Later he seems to have served in Pennsylvania.

As he knew the blacksmithing business. he may have been assigned to some special duties. The mines in Sinking Valley were being worked for war material.

NOTE: His grave has been marked with a Revolutionary War Veteran emblem, and the following is his War service, as shown in the records of the Old Dick Church Cemetery:
WILLIAM BOYD, 1751-1846; Private Capt. George Enslow's Company, Bedford County Militia. 1778-1783. 3-23-235.
This is believed to be in error, as it is not borne out by the War service records, which are here presented, and which have been prepared after exhaustive research.
Katherine Cox Gottschalk. Genealogist. has placed in the Library of the D.A.R. in Washington, D. C., the results of her searches and classifications of the Revolutionary soldiers by the name of William Boyd of Pennsylvania.

After the War William[3] Boyd removed to Sinking Valley, Huntington County, Pa. to the lands owned in that County by his father, William[2] Boyd. Later he removed to Westmoreland County, Pa., joining his brothers. who had gone there prior to 1800.

Tax List, York County. Pa., Cumberland Twp.. 1779.

William[3] Boyd, Jr.—0 acres 1-2-2 (no land, five inhabitants in his household, 3 males, 2 females).

LAND TRANSACTIONS OF WILLIAM[3] BOYD:

William[3] Boyd and his first wife. Margaret. purchased from John Cadwallader, Esq., of Huntington County. Pa., who was agent for James Cresswell, a tract of land called "Reserve" containing 124 acres. 29 perches for £126:9:0. This tract was located on Shaver's Creek. Barree Twp., Huntington County, Pa. Patented Dec. 23. 1793 (Ref. Patent Book 20, p. 175).

Recorded Dec. 24. 1793 (Ref. Book C. p. 507. June 16. 1794, Huntington County, Pa.)

This land was sold by William[3] Boyd and Margaret, his wife. to Barnabas (Barnhart) Borst of East Pensboro Twp., Cumberland County, Pa., for £310:8:4. (Ref. Book H. p. 269. Nov. 12, 1794.)

It was sold on terms. as receipts are dated May 15, 1800, and recorded Aug. 7th, 1801.

Barnabas Borst later sold this land to the Wilson heirs. (Ref. Book N, p. 174.)

From Huntington and Clair County Histories: Page 404 West Twp. (cut from Barree Twp.), "Barnard Borst resided in this place from 1790 to 1815."

William[3] Boyd purchased, Apr. 11, 1797, from Thomas McDaniel and Susan his wife, of Mifflin Twp., Alleghaney County, Pa., a ten acre tract of land called

"Donaldson," located on Peter's Creek. Alleghaney County. Pa. (Ref. Deed Book 47, p. 458. Alleghaney County. Pa., Court House. Recorded Jan. 17, 1835.)

This tract was left to Thomas McDaniel by the will of his father, John, by whom the tract was patented.

This land ("Donaldson") was sold by William[3] Boyd and his wife Margaret, of North Huntingdon Twp., Westmoreland County, Pa., May 29, 1800, to James Duncan of Mifflin Twp., Alleghaney County, Pa. (Ref. Book 9, p. 474, Alleghaney County, Pa.) The deed was not recorded until 1835.

William[3] Boyd of Westmoreland County, Pa. purchased for £322 from James Miller and Mary, his wife, of Mifflin Twp., Alleghaney County, Pa., a tract of land called "Mansfield," located on Peter's Creek. Alleghaney County, Pa., containing 171 acres, 123 perches. (Ref. Book 47, p. 93, Apr. 27, 1798.)

James Miller held warrant for this land, dated Sept. 26, 1785, which was patented Mar. 3, 1797, 420 acres.

This land ("Mansfield") was sold by William[3] Boyd and Margaret, his wife, to James Duncan of Mifflin Twp., Alleghaney County, Pa. (Ref. Book 9, p. 473-4, May 29, 1800.)

William[3] Boyd and Margaret, his wife, of South Huntingdon Twp., Westmoreland County, Pa., purchased from the heirs of Michael Helman, Apr. 2, 1811, a tract of land called "Partnership," containing 319⅜ acres, located in what was then Huntingdon Twp., Westmoreland County, Pa., but now lies in Versailles Twp., Alleghaney County, Pa. This land was patented Sept. 24, 1787, by Michael Helman and Conrad Ludwick. (Ref. Book 12, p. 456.) Ludwick and his wife, Mary, on May 3, 1793, convey their part to Michael Helman.

This land ("Partnership") was sold by William[3] Boyd and Margaret, his wife, Mar. 5, 1812, to Thomas Serven of Versailles Twp., Alleghaney County, Pa. Recorded Mar. 28, 1812. (Ref. Book 31, p. 106.)

William[3] Boyd purchased land in Westmoreland County, Pa., from Christopher Neaff, Feb. 27, 1811 (Ref. Book 10, p. 29).

William[3] Boyd purchased land in Westmoreland County, Pa., from Robert[3] Boyd, Sept. 1, 1812. (Robert[3] had bought it from his brother, Archibald[3] Boyd.) This was the home of William[3] Boyd in Westmoreland County, Pa. (Ref. Book 11, p. 75.)

He then sold this land Apr. 21, 1814, to Alexander Robertson (same ref.).

William[3] Boyd purchased land in Westmoreland County, Pa., from James Lodge, Apr. 25, 1814. (Ref. Book 10, p. 563.) This land was sold in 1816 to Levi Zimmerman.

The 300 acre farm in East Huntingdon Twp., Westmoreland County, Pa., upon which William[3] Boyd was living when Margaret died, was sold after her death, Aug. 8, 1815, for $9000.00. (Ref. Book 11, p. 487.)

Mortgages were given by the purchasers, Samuel Zimmerman, et al. (Ref. Book 13, p. 10 and 17.)

Apr. 18, 1818. Levi Zimmerman took over all of the interests of the previous owners of this land, and made a new mortgage to William[3] Boyd. (Ref. Book 13, p. 17.)

This land was called "Good Lodging" and was bought from the heirs of Benjamin Lodge. (Ref. Book 11, p. 349.)

William[3] Boyd purchased another farm of 304 acres (surveyed 296 acres, 10 perches), for $7500.00 in South Huntingdon Twp., Westmoreland County, Pa., from John Richey and Jennie his wife, of Westmoreland County, Pa., Apr. 6, 1816. (Ref. Patent Book 51, p. 399. Also Book 17, p. 196.)

Deed was recorded May 10, 1828. Land was adjacent to Randel Ross, William Reynolds and James Hamilton.

It was to this farm he brought his second wife, Martha, to reside in 1824, and this was his last home and where he was living in 1846, when his will was made.

In 1837 William[3] and his second wife, Martha, made over this land to his son, John[4] Boyd, for $7325.00, 296 acres (Ref. Book 23, p. 365, Nov. 17, 1837), under agreement to have this son provide for them.

William[3] Boyd was then of South Huntingdon Twp., Westmoreland County, Pa.

William[3] Boyd held lands in Stark County, O. Tract No. 6, Range 10, Twp. 11, 17 acres, 114 rods, which he willed to his son, William[4] Boyd.

He also held other lands, which were not recorded.

NOTE: Early Pennsylvania men were lax in recording deeds. About 1830 a large number of deeds were often recorded on one piece of land. When lands were inherited from one generation to another there was no recording. Thus the original Boyd farm in Adams County, Pa., came down to Archibald[3] Boyd.

SEVEN CHILDREN of William[3] and Margaret Boyd:

(1) WILLIAM[4] BOYD (No. 4)
(See Fourth Generation, page 37)
(2) John[4] Boyd
(3) Robert[4] Boyd

(For their records, see page 51-53)

William[3] Boyd MARRIED second Apr. 1, 1824, to Martha Bales (Bails) of Pennsylvania, in Cadiz, O., by Joseph Fry, J.P. (Ref. Marriage Record, Book A, p. 265, Harrison County, O., Court House.) She survived him.

She is buried in the Old Cemetery at Cadiz, O.

CHILDREN: None.

The following article was prepared by Katherine Cox Gottschalk, the genealogist on these records:

"This William[3] Boyd was born on the old farm which his grandfather had taken up when he first came from Ireland in 1734-36—the same home that he so stoutly protected in his resistance to the surveyors sent out by the Proprietors of the Colony to lay out this and the adjacent lands into the 'Manor of Maske.' This farm is on a branch of Marsh Creek not far from Gettysburg. William[3] Boyd did not stay so closely at home as his father and uncles had done. Probably the stories he heard from the travelers around the tavern inspired him to try new fields. His father had already invested in new lands some distance from his home, near Gettysburg, Pa. These lands were all located in Bedford County, Pa., but are now in Bedford and Huntington County, Pa. The lands in Huntington County, Pa., evidently held the prospects of some mining development, but the 'Juniata Lands' were farm lands. The rents from the 'Sinking Valley' (Huntington County) lands were to provide some support for Catherine, the widow of William[2] Boyd, the mother of William[3] Boyd. William[3] Boyd, after the death of his father, went up to Huntington County, and lived on and looked after these 'Sinking Valley' lands. He bought and sold some land there, and started on a career of land investment, which he continued to follow when he moved to Westmoreland County, Pa., from Huntington County, Pa. In Westmoreland County, we find him buying farms, and selling them, lending money for their purchase, and collecting these notes, and from these records we would call him a farmer, and also a real estate man. He also bought land in Ohio, considered a land of great promise, as did so many Pennsylvanians, who bought for investment.

"This William[3] Boyd married first Margaret . . . . whose last name is not known. After her death, and when an old man, he married a second time, when on a trip or a visit to Ohio, a Miss Martha Bales, who was of the Quaker faith.

and brought her back to Pennsylvania to a farm that he owned and had let out on terms to his son, John[4] Boyd. Here he and Martha lived, and he died at the advanced age of 95 years. In his will he requested that he be buried in the old United Presbyterian Church yard.

"From this simple request written into this old document, much of the character of William[3] Boyd is shown. He was still a staunch follower of the faith of his forefathers, who had carried their faith into new homes in Ireland and again across the seas into the hills of Pennsylvania. He wanted to rest near his first wife and his brothers, who were buried in this old burying ground, but how tactful not to stress that point. So it would seem that he was a very considerate old fellow even at the age of ninety-five. He was laid to rest beside his first wife Margaret, and their graves are marked.

"After his death, his widow, Martha, who was considerably younger, went back to Ohio among friends and relatives, where she died.

"Some of the children of William[3] Boyd continued to live in Westmoreland County, Pa., where their descendants still live today.

"Others of his family removed to Ohio, and went on further west in the next generation.

"All of the brothers of William[3] Boyd left Adams County, Pa., with the exception of Archibald[3], who died in Adams County, and is buried there in the Lower Marsh Creek Presbyterian Church yard.

"All of these four brothers, John[3], William[3], Robert[3], Benjamin[3], are buried and have markers in the Old Sewickley (now Old Dick) Church yard, near West Newton, Pa."

SIXTH GENERATION

6. JOHN FINLEY[6] BOYD (John D.[5], William[4], William[3], William[2], William[1])

Born May 10, 1842. in Uhrichsville, Tuscarawas County. O.

Died July 21. 1910. in Monrovia, Calif.

Buried in the Boyd Cemetery Lot, Butler, Mo.

MARRIED Nov. 13. 1872, to Mary (Mollie) Jane Cullar[4] in Butler, Mo.

(See Cullar Family, page 242)

(See Cullar Family, published by Scott Lee Boyd)

His occupation: Lumberman. Founder and President, J. F. Boyd Lumber Co.

In 1856 he moved with his parents in covered wagons to McLean County, Ill., near Bloomington, where they lived on a wheat farm until the Civil War broke out. His brothers, Albert and Hiram, enlisted, and John, not being able to obtain his father's consent, decided to run away and join the army. He was intercepted, however, and persuaded to return to the farm, where his help was needed.

In 1864 he left the farm, taking a position as clerk in a mercantile store in Centralia, Ill., and in 1865, after the war was over, he worked his way to Georgia.

In 1869 he joined his father's family, which was now established on the Boyd farm, a few miles northeast of Butler, Bates County, Mo.

In 1870 John moved into Butler, and went to work in the general store of John Wesley Cullar, whose daughter Mary (Mollie) Jane, he married in 1872.

In 1871 he took a position as clerk in the lumber yard of H. C. Wyatt, and in 1874 he was taken in as a partner, and the firm name was changed to Wyatt & Boyd. This firm continued until about 1893.

In 1879 he moved his family to Appleton City, Mo., where the M.K.&T. Railway was putting through a railroad, and he established a lumber yard there, with John's brother, Hiram Clyde Boyd, in charge. This firm also started the first lumber business in Rich Hill, Mo., when the city was in its infancy.

In 1880 he moved back to Butler, Mo., where he built his large family home and where the last four of his children were born. The compiler of these records, Scott Lee Boyd, was the first child born in this home. This was maintained as the family home until his removal to California in 1899.

In 1888 he moved his family temporarily to Clinton, Mo., where he had previously established a lumber business.

In 1889 he moved back to the family home in Butler, Mo.

In 1890 John's wife died very suddenly in Butler, Mo., where she was staying with the younger children while he was on a trip to the Colorado Mountains with Cora and Ed, the two older children.

In 1891 he moved to Appleton City, Mo., to look after his lumber business there.

In 1893 he moved back to Butler, Mo., where he sold his interests in Wyatt & Boyd and established May 1, 1893, a new corporation called the J. F. Boyd Lumber Company, of which he was President and General Manager. His associates in this business were a group of friends and prominent men of Bates, and the adjoining counties of St. Clair, Cedar, Cass, Vernon and Henry. These men were as follows: Judge J. N. Ballard of Montrose, Judge S. S. Cowan of Shell City, Samuel Cotton of Appleton City, and J. P. Edwards and I. N. Mains of of Butler, Mo.

The headquarters of this new firm was at Butler, Mo., and they established a line of retail lumber yards in Rich Hill, Butler, Oceola, Collins, Foster, Clinton, Harwood, Shell City, Appleton City, Lowery City, Eldorado Springs, Nine Wonders, Walker, Montrose, Passaic, Rockville, and others, all in Missouri.

Butler and Rich Hill being on the Missouri Pacific Ry. served as distributing points, from which places lumber was hauled overland to many other towns where they had yards.

In 1899 John consolidated his lumber business with that of the Logan-Moore Lumber Company, and formed the Logan-Moore-Boyd Lumber Company. He retired from active management in May 1899, and moved his family to California.

In 1900 (Jan.) he purchased an 80-acre orange ranch, north of Redlands, Calif., which he sold in 1904.

In 1902 he sold his interests in the Logan-Moore-Boyd Lumber Company in Missouri.

In 1902 the Imperial Valley was just beginning to attract attention, and on Dec. 1st of that year, he established the J. F. Boyd Lumber Company in Holtville, Calif. The following year he established a second yard in Imperial, Calif.

In these enterprises his sons, Ed and Scott, were his associates. He operated these yards until about 1905 or 1906, when they were sold.

In 1907 John moved his family from Redlands to Monrovia, Calif., where his son Scott had established a new lumber business, called The Boyd Lumber Company. Here he lived until his death, July 21, 1910.

Mary (Mollie) Jane Cullar was born Aug. 3, 1850, in Abingdon, Washington County, Va.

She died July 3, 1890, in Butler, Mo.

Buried in the Boyd Cemetery Lot, Butler, Mo.

SEVENTH GENERATION

7. SCOTT LEE[7] BOYD (John Finley[6], John D.[5], William[4], William[3], William[2], William[1])

He was named after General Winfield Scott of Mexican War fame, and the family doctor, Dr. W. D. Lee. His name appears in the family Bible as "Lee Scott," but it was changed.

Born Feb. 5, 1882, in Butler, Bates County, Mo.

Living 1935 in Santa Barbara, Calif. (2401 Garden St.)

MARRIED June 3, 1909, to Mercelia Anna Winslow in Monrovia, Calif.

(See Tracy-Winslow Family, published by Scott Lee Boyd, 1933)

He was educated in the schools of Butler, Mo.

His occupation: Lumberman, President Boyd Lumber & Mill Co., Santa Barbara, Calif.

He moved from Butler and Nevada, Mo., to Redlands, Calif., in July, 1901, to Monrovia, Calif., Oct. 1, 1905, and to Santa Barbara, Calif., Jan. 1, 1914.

During his boyhood and school days he engaged in many enterprises. When seven or eight years of age he developed a mania for conducting soda pop, lemonade and milk-shake stands, and for several years, every circus day, 4th of July, and during school vacations, he was found operating one of them.

His enthusiasm for this was enhanced by reason of the fact that his dad was taking out an uncollectible account in soda pop, which was turned over to Scott without cost, thereby making his sales "all profit."

This was all going on in the 'nineties, when big business mergers and expansions were the order of the day. Not to be outdone, Scott conceived the idea of a "branch stand," while living in Appleton City, Mo. This was promptly started and put in charge of a boy playmate in a different part of the town. Upon a visit to the "branch" the amazing discovery was made that during the first few days of operation the manager "drank up" the soda pop and filled the bottles with water. The branch was closed and this feature was never again attempted.

At the age of ten years he became such an ardent collector of postage stamps that he launched out into being a regular stamp dealer. advertising and selling his wares over the United States.

He also owned and operated a hand printing press, on which he printed and sold name cards.

Other activities included raising hogs (in which his father furnished the corn and Scott reaped the profits). clerking in grocery stores and in his father's lumber yards. and driving the lumber delivery wagon. for which he received 50c per day.

The main idea back of it all. in addition to his unquenchable desire to have a business of his own in later years, was to save up sufficient money for a trip to California, to visit his oldest brother, Ed. who had gone there in December. 1895, and settled on a fruit ranch in Hemet. Calif., adjoining his uncle, Hiram Clyde Boyd's ranch. Scott succeeded in this undertaking.

In July 1897 he made this long journey alone. returning in time for school in the Fall.

In 1899, after his family had all moved to California. Scott went to Nevada. Mo.. where he took a position as clerk during summer school vacation. with the Logan-Moore-Boyd Lumber Co., where his uncle. John Charles Light, was the manager. His salary was $15.00 per month. He returned to the High School in Butler, Mo., in the Fall.

In 1900 he accepted the position of bookkeeper at $30.00 per month, in the office of Logan-Moore-Boyd Lumber Co.. in Nevada. where Mr. Geo. E. Logan was then manager.

In July. 1901. Scott obtained a leave of absence for a trip to visit his family in Redlands, Calif.. after which he never returned to his native State.

While looking for a position in the lumber business, which he had chosen as his career, he served as bookkeeper in the grocery store of J. R. Newbury & Co.. in Redlands. Calif.

In April. 1902. he moved to San Pedro. Calif., for a position in the wholesale lumber office of the San Pedro Lumber Co.. which had been offered him by the General Manager, Mr. L. W. Blinn.

In June, 1903, he moved to Riverside, Calif., where he accepted a position as bookkeeper for the Pacific Lumber Co.. and purchased a small amount of stock in that firm.

In January, 1905, he sold his interest in this firm and went to Los Angeles in the wholesale lumber office of Nofziger Bros. Lumber Co., which was merged into the Consolidated Lumber Co., and Scott was assistant to the manager. Mr. Frank L. Bortells.

On October 1st, 1905 (precisely thirty years ago to the day that this is being written), he moved to Monrovia, Calif., where he became President and manager of his newly-organized Boyd Lumber Co., with Frank L. Bortells as Vice-President. This was the opportunity which he had sought for so long "to get into a lumber business of his own."

It was in Monrovia the following year he met Mercelia Anna Winslow. to whom he was married in 1909.

In November, 1907, he established a lumber yard in Glendora, Calif.. under the name of Boyd Lumber Co. of Glendora, with Frank L. Bortells and H. S. Riser as associates. Mr. Riser was the manager, and he later purchased the entire business.

In 1911 his first attempt was made to gather family records, of which this book is the final culmination.

On January 1st, 1914, he moved to Santa Barbara, Calif., where he organized and became President of the Boyd Lumber & Mill Co., a new corporation, with Clyde Hiram Boyd as Vice-President, and a new lumber and mill business was established in Santa Barbara, Calif.

This has continued to the present day. The Monrovia busines was sold to Mr. Bortells, and the Valley Lumber Co. of Glendale was sold by Clyde H. Boyd.

In December, 1921, Scott and Francis Boyd purchased the interest of Clyde H. Boyd in the Boyd Lumber & Mill Co., of Santa Barbara.

On November 5, 1924, the City Building & Loan Association opened for business in Santa Barbara. This new corporation was organized by Scott L. Boyd, among a group of local business men, consisting of Seth A. Keeney, Pres., Scott L. Boyd, Vice-Pres., S. B. Schauer, Sec'y, with Francis E. Boyd, John A. Parma, J. I. Eisenberg, C. A. Ott, Fred H. Schauer and J. M. Williamson as directors. Upon the retirement in 1930 of Seth A. Keeney, Scott L. Boyd became President, and has continued in this capacity.

He was a Charter Member of the following Santa Barbara organizations:

La Cumbre Golf and Country Club (1915).

Merchants Credit Association (1917), served as President 1918-19.

Rotary Club (1917), serve as President 1917-18.

NINE CHILDREN OF WILLIAM[1] BOYD AND MARGARET BOYD

(See First Generation, page 27-29)

1. JOHN[2] BOYD (William[1])

Born about 1720 in Ireland. Died about 1771.

It is thought that this is the John[2] Boyd, the immigrant, who came to Pennsylvania with his father, William[1] Boyd, and his uncle Thomas[1] Boyd in 1729. When he arrived at the age of 21, he took up a piece of land adjoining his father's in his own right. This land grant was dated Mar., 1741, and further confirmed on Oct. 7, 1765, for 120 acres, when the survey by the proprietors of the colony was actually made. The land lay in Cumberland Twp., Adams County, Pa. (Ref. Pa. Arch. 3rd series. Vol. 3. p. 259-260. Proprietary Rights.)

MARRIED in 1742 to Jean McPherson in Adams County, Pa.

She was born about 1725; died in 1767, in York County (now Adams), Pa.

HER PARENTS: Robert, the Immigrant, and Janet (McElwee) McPherson. (Came from Scotland with Hance Hamilton and others and settled on Marsh Creek. He died Dec. 25, 1749, in York County (now Adams), Pa. She died Sept. 23, 1767. Buried in Black Cemetery, near Gettysburg, Pa.

Her will was dated Aug. 24, 1761, probated Oct. 21, 1768. York County, Pa. Will Book B, p. 169.)

Bequests: to sister, Margaret Starrard alias McElwee of Ireland and leaves her £10. To son, Robert McPherson and his children, viz: Janet, Margaret, William and Robert. To daughter, Frances, wife of Hugh Davis (or Davies) and her children, viz: Janet, Hugh, Agnes, James, Rosanna and an unnamed child. To grandchildren, Janet and Margaret Boyd, children of John Boyd. Extr. son Robert McPherson and friend James Ferguson. Wit. James McGinley, Samuel Edie, Wm. Ferguson.

HER BROTHERS AND SISTERS:

Robert McPherson, wife, Agnes Miller.

He was born June 10, 1730, in Ireland; died Sept. 12, 1802. She was born Apr. 16, 1732. Married June 11, 1751, and resided in Cumberland Twp., York County (now Adams), Pa.

Frances McPherson, husband, Hugh Davis.

She was born in 1728. They resided in Augusta County, Va. They moved from Pennsylvania to Rockbridge County, Va., where his will was probated, and which gives names of all his children.

(Ref. Egles Notes & Queries. Vol. 5. p. 99. under Davis Family. Vol. 16. p. 295.)

TWO CHILDREN of John[2] and Jean (McPherson) Boyd:

(1) Janet[3] Boyd

Born before 1767 in York County (now Adams), Pa.

(2) Margaret[3] Boyd

Born before 1767 in York County (now Adams), Pa.

2. MOSES[2] BOYD (William[1])

Born about 1724 in Ireland.

Died 1777 (or 1778) in Cumberland Twp., York County (now Adams), Pa.

His will dated Dec. 29, 1777, probated Jan. 10, 1778. Will Book D, page 69. Cumberland Twp., York County (now Adams), Pa.

Bequests: To wife, Catherine, one-sixth of estate.

To son, Andrew, one-third of estate, and he is to be "learned to be a good English scollar."

To daughters, Margaret and Jane, each one-sixth of estate.

Executors: Capt. William McClean of Hamilton Ban Twp., York County, Pa.
James Black of Cumberland Twp., York County, Pa.

Witnesses: Andrew Brandwood, James Gilkerson and James Spear.

NOTE: The McCleans were closely allied with the Boyd Family throughout all the records and the Blacks lived adjacent to the Boyds. The old Marsh Creek Cemetery is sometimes called Black's Cemetery.

He left several children under age at his death.

He was the eldest son and was co-executor with his mother of the estate of his father in 1767.

MARRIED to Catharine Buchanan.

Tax list. Pa. Arch. 3rd Ser. Vol. 21:

1780 Cumberland Twp., York County, Pa. Widow Boyd (Widow of Moses Boyd). 100 acres (1779-80-81). Her name appears as Catherine in 1781.

1. CORA CULLAR[7] BOYD (John Finley[6], John D.[5], William[4], William[3], William[2], William[1])

Born Oct. 3, 1873, in Butler, Bates County, Mo.

Living 1935 in Santa Barbara, Calif. (2731 Puesta Del Sol, Mission Canyon).

She was educated in the schools of Butler, Mo., and the Butler Academy.

The mother of this family died when the youngest child, Francis Eugene[7] Boyd, was but six months of age. Cora, being the only daughter and the oldest child, became the "active mother" in assisting the father in bringing up this large household of boys, whose appreciation knows no bounds for her devotion and unselfish efforts in this task.

She moved with the family in 1899 to Hemet, Calif.; in 1904 to the City of Redlands; in 1907 to Monrovia, Calif., where she made her home for a number of years. In 1921 she moved to Empire, Calif., and later in the same year to Modesto, Calif. In August, 1921, she moved to Ivanhoe, Calif., and in 1923 to Santa Barbara, Calif. In January, 1929, she moved into her own home in Mission Canyon, Santa Barbara, Calif., where she continues to reside.

Living 1935 in Jacumba, Calif.

MARRIED Dec. 19, 1911, to Grace Jones in El Centro, Calif.

He was educated in the schools of Butler, Mo., and in the Butler Academy.

His occupation: Operator in real estate and ranch lands.

In 1895 he moved from his home in Butler, Mo., to Hemet, Calif., where he purchased and set out a five-acre fruit ranch, adjoining his uncle, Hiram Clyde Boyd's, ranch and nursery.

In 1899 he sold the Hemet ranch and went to Roswell, N. M., to purchase a cattle ranch for J. P. Edwards of Butler, Mo.

In 1900 he moved to Redlands, Calif., to assist his father on his orange ranch.

In 1901 he was in Imperial Valley, Calif.

In 1902 he was in Oregon and Washington.

In 1903 he moved to Holtville, Calif., and assisted his father in establishing two lumber yards in the Imperial Valley of California.

In 1905 he established a real estate business in Imperial Valley, in its boom days, specializing in large tracts of lands and ranches. He did a thriving business while it lasted. Some of these transactions left him with several pieces of business property in Los Angeles, where he spent some time operating them.

In 1910 he was elected County Supervisor of Imperial County for four years, during which time he originated the plan and completed the job of building a "plank highway" over the sands of the desert from Imperial Valley to Yuma, Calif. About this time (1911) he married Grace Jones at El Centro, Calif.

In 1915 he moved his family to Los Angeles and later to San Diego, Calif., where they resided for several years, and from there he continued to operate his ranch land business, mostly in Imperial Valley and Arizona.

In 1922 (Dec.) he moved his family to a fruit ranch near Yuma, Ariz.

In 1925 (May 28) he moved his family to Jacumba, San Diego County, Calif.

In 1927 (Oct. 14), while Ed was still operating his real estate business, his wife, Grace, purchased the Red Cross Pharmacy in Jacumba, which she continues to operate, and where they have made their home for the past ten years.

In 1913 (June) to May. 1917. he was with the Terra Bella Lumber Co., at Terra Bella, Calif.

World War Service of Wallace Warfel Boyd:

While living in Terra Bella. Calif.. Wallace enlisted June 2nd. 1917. at Fort McDowell. Angel Island, Calif.. for overseas service during the World War conflict. He was assigned to the Engineer Corps. but a few days later was transferred to the Artillery Division and sent to Camp Stewart, Fort Bliss. near El Paso. Texas, and placed in Battery E. 1th Division. 13th Field Artillery, arriving there June 21st. 1917 (his number was 564240).

He had no regular assignment until Sept. 10th. when he was assigned to special duty as bookkeeper with the Supply Company. The latter part of November he was made a first-class private. and officially transferred to the Supply Company.

On Dec. 13th, 1917, they entrained for Camp Green, N. C., arriving there Dec. 20th in a snowstorm.

On April 15th, 1918, Wallace was made a Corporal of Supply Company, 13th Field Artillery, 4th Division, Camp Green, Charlotte, N. C.

On May 13th, 1918, they were sent to Camp Merritt, N. J., and on May 20th sailed on the "Great Northern" from Hoboken, N. J., accompanied by a sister ship, the "Northern Pacific." Each ship had six thousand men, and they were seven days in crossing. They landed at Brest, France, on May 30th, and camped about six miles from there, at Pontinez Barracks, which had been built by Napoleon.

On June 6th they were sent on a three-hundred-mile train trip to Camp De Souge (France), arriving there June 10th, where they went into intensive training, preparatory to being sent to the front lines. This Camp was about fifteen miles from Bordeaux. On August 1st, 1918, Wallace went with the 13th Field Artillery to Chateau-Thierry, and their batteries went into position on August 4th at Belleau Woods, about six miles away.

This position was advanced very soon to near Muriel en Dole. Actual fighting began on August 9th, and on the 16th they marched back seventeen miles for a few days' rest at Tareneaux. Their infantry had been on the front lines for close to three months.

On August 20th at 9:30 P.M. they started on a twenty-four-mile march, arriving at Ancelot at 7:30 A.M., where they unloaded. They then traveled to Chantrains for a few days, then back to Ancelot for a few more days, and then started on a night march to the St. Mihiel sector. The first day they camped in the woods, second day near Joinville, and the third day in woods near a private park, along a canal, where orders were given to spend the night.

Wallace and his tent mate pitched their pup tents together. They were not awakened when a sudden midnight order to move on was given, and when they awoke at 6:00 A.M. found themselves entirely alone, and detached from their outfit. Wallace, knowing that he was within twenty miles of Eclaron, where his brother Francis was stationed, attempted to pay him a visit.

They walked for three or four hours and got as far as St. Dizier, where they were picked up and escorted to the reporting station, and after explanations were sent to Bar le Duc and from there by truck to join their Division at Pretz.

(The two brothers never once saw each other while overseas, though at times were within eight miles of each other. They both returned home uninjured.)

A few days later they moved into the woods at Rupt near Rattentout, in the St. Mihiel sector, which up to this time had remained very quiet. Going into full action here was a surprise to the Germans, and it was the first battle fought entirely under the command of General John J. Pershing. In this battle appeared the entire 4th and 26th Divisions, and several regiments of French, supported by the 16th and 77th Field Artillery. The barrage was opened at 1:00 A.M., and at daylight, when they went over the top, the Germans offered very little resistance.

About Sept. 15th, 1918, they were ordered to move to the Meuse Argonne, where they camped the following morning in the woods, staying for a few days. This was near Aisne and Cuisy, and Dead Man's Hill.

On Sept. 20th they were at Ancemont, leaving on Sept. 23rd for Blercourt through Vaubecourt, where their battery went into position just out of Esnes on Hill No. 304 and Dead Man's Hill.

On Sept. 26th, 1918, they started what developed into the largest barrage of the war, lasting for ten hours, and in which they advanced six miles, captured over two thousand prisoners, twenty-five German 77 M.M. howitzers, many machine guns and thousands of rounds of ammunition. By Sept. 29th the Germans had been pushed back beyond Cuisy to the banks of the Meuse River, where they made a desperate fight.

Wallace was in charge of four wagons hauling ammunition to the batteries. when on Sept. 30th. a six-inch shell made a direct hit on the rear wagon, killing the driver, helper, and five horses.

On Oct. 12th the 4th Division was the first Division to gain their objective. and they had to hold their ground while the 5th gained theirs, and the French theirs. This wedge driven into the German lines was about a mile wide at its base and one-half mile deep.

On Oct. 22nd about two hundred allied planes. in squads of eight. passed over them on a bombing expedition. Only four planes were lost, and they entirely broke up enemy resistance. making it possible for the 5th Division. and the French, to go over the top, and bring their front lines up even with the lines previously attained by the 4th Division.

On Oct. 25th all these Divisions laid down a concentrated barrage. driving the enemy across the Meuse.

On Oct. 27th the 4th Division was relieved and they went back through Esnes to Montzeville. On Oct. 29th they were again called to the front for barrage duty.

On Oct. 30th they had newspapers mentioning that Austria wanted peace. At this time they had driven the Germans back through Anchorville and were hard on their heels when the order came at 11:00 A.M. on Nov. 11. 1918. to "Cease firing." and the World War was over.

After the Armistice was signed on Nov. 11th. the 4th Division was ordered into Germany. and they were about two days behind the German Army on this march. They left Anchorville on Nov. 12th. as occupation troops. and camped the first night at Avoncourt. and then on to Senoncourt. Longehaugh. and Pont-Sur-Meuse. where they stopped for a week to get new equipment. These places are all in France.

They then moved on to Essey. France, passing through a beautiful agricultural and mining region to Gromovern. and on to Florchingen in Alsace-Lorraine, arriving there on Nov. 22nd, 1918.

This Army of Occupation was stationed at Büchel. Ulmen. and Walporzhiem (about sixty miles south of Coblenz), Germany.

The Supply Company had its office in the St. Peter's Inn, at Walporzhiem, on the River Ahr. This inn was built two hundred years ago. and the wine cellar underneath seven hundred years ago. and they are still both in use.

Wallace was stationed with this Army of Occupation until about July 1st, 1919, when they were sent home aboard the "Zelandia." sailing from Brest, France. They were twelve days in crossing. and landed at Hoboken, N. J. Marched to Camp Merritt, where they stayed about four days. and then entrained on Northern Pacific Railway for San Francisco. Calif.

He was discharged August 11. 1919. at the Presidio. San Francisco, Calif. Commanding Officer. Major Thomas Brass. U.S.A. (Ref. Cir. 106. W.D., Dec. 3, 1918.) On the back of his official discharge. over the signature of Chester R. Hunt, Capt. Engineers. appears the following record of battles and engagements in which Wallace took part:

Aisne-Maine offensive. Aug. 3rd to Aug. 6th. 1918.
Vesle Sector. Aug. 7th to Aug. 17th, 1918.

Living 1935 in Santa Barbara, Calif. (20 East Junipero Street).

MARRIED July 16, 1919. to Katherine Cutting Stewart in Stockton, Calif.

His occupation: Vice-President and Manager. Boyd Lumber & Mill Co., Santa Barbara, Calif.

In 1899 he moved with his father's family to Redlands. Calif., where he attended school while living on the orange ranch of his father

In 1908 he moved with his father's family to Monrovia. Calif., where he attended and graduated from Monrovia High School. June. 1911.

In 1911 he went to work in the saw mill of Port Blakeley Mill Co., Port Blakeley, Wash., to "learn the lumber business from the stump up."

In 1913 he became Manager of the Builders Lumber Co., of Gustine. Calif.. where he remained until the World War broke out.

In 1917 (Sept. 27) he enlisted for service in the World War.

World War Service of Francis Eugene Boyd:

While living in Gustine. Calif.. Francis enlisted (Sept. 27, 1917) at Fort McDowell, Angel Island. Calif., for overseas service during the World War conflict. and was assigned to the 5th Company, 20th Engineers (his number: 172446).

After a month's training at the barracks on the American University Campus, Washington, D. C., they sailed on the old German transport, "Madawaska," which was originally "Koenig Wilhelm II," with 1700 men aboard. After a fourteen-day trip they landed at St. Nazaire, France. on Thanksgiving Day. Nov. 28, 1917. Francis was made ranking Sergeant at this time.

They were in barracks close by until Dec. 19. when they went by train to Eclaron, France, arriving Dec. 22, 1917. They made permanent camp about three miles from this place. where a saw mill and logging operations were established, and they were soon producing 100 M. ft of lumber per 20-hour day, for use in trenches, bridges, and docks. This place was bombed several times, but no one was hurt in camp.

In July, 1918, Francis was appointed First Sergeant.

Francis served in this location until the Armistice was signed, and in Feb., 1919, they left Eclaron, France, and embarked for home from Bordeaux, France, in April on the ship "Roanoke" and were eleven days on the Atlantic. They landed at Hoboken, N. J., and were sent to Camp Upton the latter part of April, 1919. They arrived in Camp Kearney, Calif., near San Diego, May 6, 1919, and he was discharged there May 8, 1919. (Ref. Cir. 106, W.D., 1918.) Commanding Officer, Major Will Kelly, U.S.I. Since then he has made his home in Santa Barbara, Calif.

He was appointed Second Lieutenant of Officers Reserve Corps of U.S.A., April 16, 1924.

In 1919 he became associated with the Boyd Lumber & Mill Co., in Santa Barbara, Calif., as bookkeeper.

In 1921 he became Vice-President and General Manager of this firm, upon the retirement of Clyde Hiram Boyd. This is his present occupation in 1935.

In 1929-30 he served two terms as President of the Y.M.C.A. of Santa Barbara, Calif.

"She taught school in Cadiz, Ohio, and later was the first teacher in Bismarck, N.D. She attended Oberlin College and was sent as a Home Missionary, by the Presbyterian Board to teach the Freedom of the South, in Kentucky. It was here that she met and married Dr. Slaughter, a graduate in medicine of the University of Kentucky, who had served five years during the Civil War as surgeon to the 55th Kentucky Volunteers. He remained in the army after they were married and they spent their first years at Fort Hombolt, Tenn. During their stay here, Mrs. Slaughter published her writings, 'Early Efforts,' 'Summering in the South,' and 'Freedom of the South.'

"When the 17th Infantry was ordered to Fort Rice, Dakota Territory in 1870 they went from the South to the Frontier West, by railroad and steamboat.

"They lived two years in the walled fort surrounded by hostile Indians, and in 1872, the 17th Infantry was ordered to form a temporary fort called Fort Hancock, which was later the site of the City of Bismarck, N.D.

"This company of soldiers guarded the surveyors of the Northern Pacific in 1872 against the attacks of the Indians, led by Sitting Bull.

"The City of Bismarck grew rapidly as the railroad was built, and Dr. Slaughter resigned from the army and was appointed postmaster. Mrs. Slaughter was appointed the first County Superintendent of Schools and was re-elected for three terms. She also wrote sketches and letters for eastern journals and serials for the Bismarck Tribune. 'From Fortress to Farm,' and she was the outstanding woman in the Dakotas in the '70's and '80's."

THE McGREW FAMILY

FIRST GENERATION

1. ROBERT[1] (MacGREW) McGREW, The Immigrant.

Born about 1675 in Scotland or Ireland.

Buried in Chestnut Hill Burial Ground in Adams, or Cumberland County, Pa. (Ref. History of Washington County, Pa., in an account of Finley McGrew.)

MARRIED to Isabella in County Tyrone, Ireland.

She was buried in Chestnut Hill Burial Ground in Adams County, Pa., with her husband.

Robert[1] and his wife, Isabella, came to the colony of Pennsylvania from County Tyrone, Ireland, about 1726-27. With them came their five sons and two grandchildren, Archibald and Catherine (children of John[2] McGrew). It is probable that this family came first to New Castle in Delaware before actually settling in Adams County, Pa.

Their first home, it appears, must have been within the limits of what would now be Lancaster County, Pa., but that with the granting of the licenses to settle across the Susquehanna in what is now Adams County, (until 1800 it was York County). Robert[1] McGrew took advantage of the opening of this land and, with his sons, settled in Adams County. Lancaster County was formed in 1729, York in 1749, and Adams in 1800.

The family were Episcopalian when they came over, but two sons intermarried with Quaker wives, and they followed the Quaker form of devotion, which led to the inference that the family were Quaker immigrants.

The Quaker Church they attended originally, about 1790, was the Westland Monthly Meeting at West Brownville, Washington County, Pa. Afterwards the Sewickley Monthly Meeting was established in Westmoreland County, Pa., and when that was discontinued the records were "laid down" at Salem, O.

The following is a sketch from the History of the McGrew Family, prepared for the McGrew Reunion to be held at Olympia Park, near McKeesport, Pa., August 15, 1912, by James C. McGrew, late of Kingwood, Virginia.:

There is no doubt that the McGrews who migrated from Ireland to America about 1726 were native Scots or descendants of Scotch immigrants, who left Scotland to avoid (as Quakers) religious persecution. The name 'McGrew' is Celtic, and should be spelled 'MacGrew' as many other names are spelled." He wrote further that he had often heard his father say that his grandfather came to America wearing a blue Scotch bonnet, doubtless a Glengarry cap, still worn in Scotland.

The McGrews of Scotland belonged to the Buchanan Clan.

The following was written by Samuel McGrew, of Sewickley Township, Westmoreland County, Pa., in the year 1844:

"On the state of their wealth at the time of their emigration, history is silent, but I infer from the fact that they gave the Township in which they settled in Adams County, the name of the County from which they came in Ireland, that is, Tyrone, that they were of some note at the time of their emigration."

The Bible of James C.[4] McGrew is in possession of Carl McGrew of Uhrichsville, O. From that source the records were obtained for the children of Robert[1], James[2], and Finley[3] McGrew.

FIVE CHILDREN of Robert[1] and Isabella McGrew:
